HAYTI, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1914.

NO. 36.

The River Problem.

Mr. John A. Fox, the secretary-manager of the Mississippi River Levee Association, who is in Washington doing everything that he can to facilitate the early passage of the pending rivers and harbors bill, reports that the bill is being delayed by what appears to be a filibuster, and very slow progress is being made. The bill was up for discussion on Monday, July 6th, when Senator Burton occupied the floor for nearly three hours in an attempt to discourage the whole bill. Senator Randall of Louisiana, who has long been familiar with river and harbor appropriations, defended the pending bill in answer to Senator Burton, and during the course of the discussion Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, Republican leader in the Senate, brought in the Mississippi river problem. He said: "I want to ask the senator a real honest, practical question. 'We all recognize the senator—and I do not think I will exclude the senator from Ohio, Mr. Burton, from that suggestion—as having given more profound study to this question of waterways than has any other senator. I gave some thought and investigation to the matter of reservoirs and I about came to the conclusion that you might as well stick a knitting needle into the Potomac river and undertake to stop the flow to the ocean as to undertake to control the Mississippi river by the construction of reservoirs. I have a good deal of consideration to the subject, and in my innocence was profoundly impressed with the thought that we might at least greatly mitigate the evils of floods by the outlet system, but in that respect scientists differed from my immature views and I abandoned them."

"Now, I ask the senator if he has given consideration to the question as to whether or not this great country, with all its wealth, will ever be able to devise a means within the limits of human expenditure that will remedy the evil of which the senator complains and which I fully recognize?"

Senator Randall answered him by pointing the Mississippi River Commission, showing that the whole problem could be absolutely solved by the expenditure of $50,000,000 for levees and $30,000,000 for bank reclamation, and stated that he had introduced a bill which had not been reported out by the committee, calling for appropriations along those lines, so that the work could be completed in five years, to which Senator Gallinger replied: "If the senator's pleasing personality can induce that committee to report the bill and it ever comes before the Senate for action, unless I change my mind, I will vote for it."

"I think we ought in some way to take up this great question on a large scale and see if it cannot be solved, because I do think our piecemeal work is not very wise."

Senator Kenyon of Iowa said: "I hope the senator will get that bill into the Senate. For my part I should like to vote for some protection to the people of the South. I don't think it is fair or just to dump all this water from the North down upon the people of the South. I think the senator will find great support for his plan in the co-operation of the States, the land owners and the government."

Mr. Smoot of Utah said: "The last trip I took down the Mississippi river from St. Louis to New Orleans, I came to the conclusion that if $50,000,000 would do the necessary levee work on the Mississippi river and also provide the necessary reclamation, it would be a closer estimate than the one just cited by the senator. I do not believe that $150,000,000 would begin to cover

Alfred L. Harty.

Alfred L. Harty of Bloomfield was in Hayti on Wednesday of last week and authorized us to place his name in our announcement column as a candidate for Congress for this, the Fourteenth Congressional District, and also to publish his statement to the voters, which you will find elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. Harty is best known as the president of the Stoddard County Trust Company at Bloomfield, an institution having a capital of $100,000. It may be a co-incidence that one of his opponents, Hon. Joe J. Russell, is also a bank president, he being president of the Charleston Bank, an institution having a capital of $100,000. Robert L. Ward, the third candidate, is, we are informed, a man of only moderate means, following the practice of law. Mr. Russell is a lawyer also.

Mr. Harty has been active in democratic politics for many years, but has never been an office seeker, having held but one office, that of collector of Stoddard county. For four years he was a member of the State Democratic Committee and served as secretary. He is a member of the Board of Supervisors of the Little River Drainage District, and is one of the leading spirits in the development of Southeast Missouri. He also owns considerable land and is extensively engaged in farming.

At first it was not Mr. Harty's intentions to extend his campaign into this county, but conditions became such that he departed from his intended course, and he now respectfully submits his claims to you, and asks you to give him fair and impartial consideration.

Local and Personal.

G. F. Callihan of Caruthersville, district wire chief for the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company, was here the first of the week, looking after the telephones in this city, and put the Herald phone in first class condition. He has a thorough understanding of the business, and when he undertakes a job he makes it satisfactory.

The Roberts Cotton Oil Company new gin being erected at this place is moving along nicely, the machinery having been placed, and much of the heavy work completed. It will have three stands, and will be modern in every particular.

Tom Guthrie came down from Portageville Monday, to do some painting for Jonah DeLisle.

"Linowite," the best washing compound, at Buckley's. 35

Ed Gengenbach of St. Louis came down Saturday to look after his farming interests near town.

Leo A. Greenwell, who now has a position with E. F. Cowee at Hollywood, was here Monday.

"Uncle" Henry Schulze has placed his name further along on honor roll.

Excellio Flour is still in the lead. You can always get it, at Buckley's.

John Crider went to Gayoso Sunday.

L. G. Maxwell was here from Covington.

Mrs. Bettie McFarland was in town trading.

Miss Clara Bowman began school at Pascola.

H. G. Smith was cutting a crop of red clover.

A business house for A. J. Dorris was about completed.

Mrs. Logan Taylor returned Sunday from Chaffee and Illmo after a week's visit.

Esq. A. J. Crowe of Caruthersville, candidate for probate judge, was in this city Thursday.

A full line of breakfast foods, always fresh, at Buckley's. 35

Jake Williams of Dry Bayou was looking after business interests in this city Thursday.

Presto-Change.

Fred Hampton of Pascola came over Monday to advertise for a stray mule, and thereby "hangs a tale." He inadvertently dropped in at the Turncoat office, and almost before he knew it was relieved of a dollar for a little local to run a month. Not being satisfied he came to the Herald office, where we prepared him a local to run one week for 20 cents and advised him against a longer insertion of the ad, all before we knew he had been "fleeced." We know of many instances of this kind.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Bogt of Cape Girardeau, Mo., visited Mrs. Bogt's brother, Otto Kassel of this city, Sunday and Monday.

Leif Ericsson—The Discoverer of America

THE FIRST WHITE MEN to tread American soil were Leif Ericsson and his sea-dashed Viking crew. This was nearly a thousand years ago, when the Scandinavian peoples ruled the seas and held the secrets of navigation. The history of the fair-haired, liberty-loving sons and daughters of Sweden, Norway and Denmark is rich in song and story. We have millions of these splendid folk in our own land, and wherever the standard of Liberty and Human Progress has been raised they are found in the front rank, bravely fighting for the Right. Better citizens or greater lovers of Personal Liberty are unknown. For centuries our full-blooded Scandinavian brothers have been moderate users of Barley-Malt brews. Who can truthfully say it has injured them in any way? It is the ancient heritage of these peoples to revolt at Prohibitory Laws, and their vote is registered almost to a man against such legislation. For 57 years Scandinavians have been drinkers of the honestly-brewed beers of Anheuser-Busch. They have helped to make their great brand BUDWEISER exceed the sales of any other beer by millions of bottles. Seven thousand, five hundred men, all in all, are daily required to keep pace with the natural public demand for Budweiser. ANHEUSER-BUSCH • ST. LOUIS, U.S.A.
